

The Wizard of iPad (Volume 1)

Alexei Lukshin was born in 1971 in the city of Gorky (now Nizhny Novgorod) in Russia. The author has two higher education degrees in economics and literature. In his new book The Wizard of iPad, the author will tell teenagers about new characters and personalities: Kester, Slobber and Wally, and their friend in common, a young wizard named Mozart, to whom Kester fastened the nickname of Bach. Because Mozart was quite a mediocre student at his magic school, like many other regular students, and could not always do magic things properly, and while making mistakes, his magic tricks sometimes carried wrong consequences, other than those he wished to do or he was asked for. In the book The Wizard of iPad, adventures of the friends get started indeed. The author is hopeful that readers will appreciate his new book, which they will buy for their children and most likely read it themselves with great relish.
